HUTCHINGS MUSEUM COMES TO LIFE
Upcoming Night at the Museum Event to be a Thrill to All

Lehi, Utah | March 6, 2014 – The Lehi City John Hutchings Museum is set to host its seventh annual Night at the Museum event March 6, 7, and 8. This event has become a family favorite event that Lehi residents look forward to every year.

For the event, the Museum will be decorated to depict different time periods and the exhibits will come to life. Actors will be dressed as historical characters including Egyptians, Romans, and cowboys who will interact with guests. A number of live animals ranging from lizards to owls will join the ranks to perform at the event. The highlight of the evening is sure to be the moving dinosaur skeleton.

While this is the seventh year the Museum has put on the Night at the Museum event, those who have come in the past will still have plenty to see because the event changes each year.

Getting ready for the event is at least a 2 month process and takes over 80 volunteers on top of the 7 Museum staff. All in all, about 3000 hours of staff and volunteer time go into making this event a night to remember.

This event is great for people of all ages, from young children to adults. There is literally something for everyone! The event runs from March 6-8 from 5:00-8:00. The cost is four dollars per person. For more information visit http://www.lehi-ut.gov/ and click on Discover -> John Hutchings Museum.
